

Since Lester Schwab Katz & Dwyer, LLP was established in 1974, the firm has enjoyed a reputation for the highest quality of defense work for self-insured national companies and insurance carriers. Now in its second generation, the firm's 24 partners include some of the nation's foremost trial attorneys and authorities in such areas as general liability, insurance, security, products liability and transportation.

The attorneys work in close partnership with their clients. By responding to their needs with integrity and meticulous preparation, they have gained their clients' confidence, trust and loyalty.

Five of the firm's attorneys are named in this edition of Super Lawyers®. Felice J. Cotignola heads the transportation group. She defends national and local motor carriers and truck insurers in personal injury and wrongful death claims. Richard Eniclerico's practice primarily involves the defense of construction, complex and general liability matters. Excess carriers have also specially designated him as trial counsel when their layer of coverage is exposed. Michael E. McDonagh heads the retail industry defense group. He is also a recognized expert in security defense, acting on behalf of clients in cases that involve claims of false arrest, assault and malicious prosecution. Steven B. Prystowsky heads the
